Steve McDonald has particular expertise in constitutional and administrative law, statutory construction and jurisdictional issues. Steve also practises in commercial law and industrial law, and accepts briefs in appeals in all areas of law, including criminal law. Steve has appeared as junior counsel in several major cases in the High Court of Australia, involving constitutional law, administrative law and criminal law. He has appeared both as junior counsel and as counsel presenting arguments in the Full Court of the Supreme Court of South Australia and the Federal Court of Australia, and other federal and State courts. He also has an extensive advice practice.

Prior to commencing practice at the Bar, Steve was a Senior Solicitor in the Advising Section of the South Australian Crown Solicitor's Office. He previously served as the Research Assistant to the then Solicitor-General for South Australia, Mr Chris Kourakis SC (now Chief Justice of South Australia), and as Associate to the Honourable Justice Richard White of the Supreme Court of South Australia (now a Justice of the Federal Court).

Steve is also an Adjunct Associate Professor at the University of Adelaide Law School and has tutored in Constitutional Law, Administrative Law and Commercial Law. He has been a reporter for the South Australian State Reports.
